From: NAMEHERE Monday: 11:08 a.m Dear Friend, Have you ever wondered why some people seem to have a "knack" for making a lot of money online? I was recently on a tele-conference call listening in on 2 popular online "Gurus" and a question was posed to one of them about how they dealt with competition in their market place. The Guru said... "well that's interesting that you ask that question. I was recently approached by a friend of mine who asked me if it was ok for them to create a site in the same Market as I was in." (First off, I had to find that funny... as I'm thinking to myself, does this guru own rights to this market?? LoL) Anyways.. The Guru replied.. " Of course you can I don't have a problem with it as I have over 2,000 keywords that I use to draw traffic to my site. Unless your leaning over my shoulder chances are its going to take you ages to research and come up with the same keyword Phrases I use. In Fact I have some keyword phrases that make up pages on my site that would take you ages to figure out." After hearing this and trying not to crack up laughing on the phone. It got me thinking. Suppose you knew this persons website and you had a tool on hand that could swipe every keyword phrase they had created for each individual page and then extract out of the page names each keyword phrase into a nice little txt file which you could use for multiple purposes.. Questions to consider... How long would it take to manually write or select every keyword phrase? How much time could this save in keyword research when developing the next Niche Site? How much money would you save monthly by having a quick alternative to WordTracker How could you use these same keyword phrases to pull in hoards of traffic? How could you potentially profit from this large stack of keyword phrases? How could leveraging another persons effort work in your favor? What ways could a regular business benefit from these phrases? Who would like more Highly Targeted Traffic? Then it hit me.. Their are people who are pulling in thousands of dollars every month from crappy looking directory sites geared towards tight niche markets? I don't even have to mention the names of the programs that create these type of sites.. I'm sure your just like myself and you own one or two ;) I mean the internet is buzzing with gossip on Directory Generators and their power to drive an Avalanche of targeted traffic to your websites products and services. Who the hell has 5hrs to spare? If I do.. I don't want to use it researching boring keywords. I want to go spend some time with my kids, grind the guitar or go shopping.. so it got my brain ticking... "The 8 Minute Workout Comparison..." Time is one of those precious things we are given, that you never get back.. once its used.. you cannot get it back. The Media knows this, Fitness Gurus know this.. that's why with every well known workout DVD package on the market, will always have the 8 minute workout video included. Come on you've seen it.. It gives you NO EXCUSES for working out.. I mean everyone has 8 minutes in a day right? Usually its 8 minutes of extremely brutal exercises.. The type I let my wife do.. whilst I sit there saying " Good Job Honey, Keep it Up" ;) I mean these sadistic videos are created to make you sweat as hard if not harder than doing the full regular 45 minute workout. but the thing is THEY WORK! The reason they work is simple! Half the battle with exercising daily is the thought of having to spend 45 mins working out..
