It is a part of many people's daily life and also can be a wonderful treat and reward. Life without chocolate would truly be a sad and empty life. For some people though eating chocolate is fraught with hazards. If you're watching your weight then one of the first things that experts tell you to do is cut out rich chocolate that is loaded with sugar and calories. Do you have special dietary restrictions that make it difficult for you to find chocolate that you can eat? For many people that suffer from conditions like diabetes limiting the amount of sugar that they eat it is necessary in order to be healthy. Diabetes is a very serious disease and controlling the amount of sugar that you eat if you're diabetic is a very serious matter. It can be hard to find tasty chocolate treats that aren't packed with sugar and are allowed on a diabetic diet. Or maybe you or someone in your family is a vegetarian or vegan so eating commercial chocolate made with dairy products is off-limits. Other people have allergies to common ingredients that are found in chocolate like nuts and can't eat commercially produced chocolate because it might trigger their allergies. If you thought that eating chocolate was going to be just a happy memory because of your dietary or health concerns I have some good news for you: Now You CAN Have Chocolate! It's true! You can have chocolate that won't interfere with your dietary restrictions or health issues. Imagine being able to share a cup of luscious hot chocolate with a loved one on a cold winter night or being able to have a thick chocolate cake for your birthday. Or if you could treat yourself to some fancy chocolate truffles when you finish that project at work or make a deadline or get a promotion? Or if you could enjoy a luxurious cup of hot chocolate with your partner before bed? You can have chocolate whenever you want! Studies have suggested that eating chocolate on a regular basis can have some health benefits for people. Multiple studies have found that chocolate contains flavonoids, a
