From the desk of Jason Potash & Jason Katzenback For the past 5 years, my office has been blog test central. Ive tinkered around with just about every blogging tactic, loophole, software or underground method out there. I rub shoulders with some of the countrys top search engine experts and hash out new get-traffic gameplans, experiments and ideas that most online marketers will never know about. Lately, there has been a disturbing trend with autoblogging. Lies Lies And MORE Lies! Heres what I mean: Everywhere you turn these days, you read about some new $97 hands-free software or push-button tool that generates gobs of autoblog money while you sleep. Dont get me wrong, autoblogging is very profitable. Its made me a lot of money.
