Dear Friend, After so many years of being with the love of your life, he or she told you it was over. You didnt even see it coming. It was out of the blue. You figured that soon the two of you would be married. Receiving news about the breakup wasnt supposed to happen. The two of you were supposed to live happily ever after. What happened? It seemed like everything was fine. The only thing that you were waiting for was a wedding date. You had already picked out the attire and were looking forward to getting your friends together for a celebration. However, when the breakup came, the joyous occasion never happened. The weirdest thing about this is that you dont know why. Was there another person in the picture? What could you have possibly done wrong? Its puzzling, especially since the separation was not expected. A breakup can really be devastating, especially after youve been together for a number of years. You would have thought that everything was solid and in order. So much for that. Its never a good feeling to break up with the one that you love so dearly. Youve spent so much time together, going to dinner, going to the movies, going on exotic vacations together, and a lot of other fun things. So the question is why? Why now? Youve invested so much time in each others lives. It just seems unthinkable that a break up could occur. Do you feel that there is a chance that this relationship can be salvaged? Do you really feel that there is hope for the two of you? Do you feel that he or she is really the love of your life and that you cant live without them? There is Hope...
