BlogRewriter is a plugin for WordPress that turns your articles into unique content. It uses a builtd in rewriting engine to turn your blog posts into unique text on the fly. This wont actually change any of your content on your server, but rather change it as it is being displayed on your web page. This means when you switch off the plugin, your content goes back to it's original state. Forget about duplicate content penalty, using this, all your pages will contain 100 unique written content. You can copy+paste, import posts via RSS feeds, place content from whatever source you want, they will all be rewritten and transformed into copyscape passed posts. Just imagine how crazy this is. You have an unlimited source of unique content, which search engines love. How easy to use it is ? It can't be easier than this. You just have to upload and activate the plugin. That's all. All your existing/future posts will be rewritten on the fly when displayed by an browsing user. How is the rewriting performed? Rewriting is performed through the built in engine. Some well constructed rewriting rules and a large thesaurus database ensure accurate translations providing state of the art rewriting capabilities. Keeping an eye on SEO Are you targeting specific keywords? Maybe you care for the certain keyword density. BlogRewriter allows you to specify a list of words you don't want to rewritten so that you can get the most your chose keyword niche. Do not rewrite specific posts Need some posts to remain in tact and not rewritten? Just post the tag into your posts and they will be ignored by the rewriter. Are you using any Auto RSS Importers or content generators on your blogs ? If you do, than you don't have to worry that they won't work because of the BlogRewriter. They will work with no problem and they will get rewritten on the fly too.
