Classified ads provide the most economical way to get your business into the public eye but do YOUR classified ads produce results? If you're like most webmasters, they probably don't and if they don't, you could be losing out on web site traffic. Classified ads are much harder to write then solo ads because they are significantly smaller in size. This requires you to really pack a punch in a very short amount of space. Most webmasters fail miserably at this and either run a poor campaign or are forced to hire an expensive copywriter. But you don't have to do that..not anymore...
