The reason for a checklist is it keeps you focused and on track. All of this little things are HUGE time savers. Even though you know your process, sometimes it is difficult to remember what step you are in. Here is the way I set mine up My Favorites Folder: I am able to move through the necessary links in my system quickly. They are arranged in order so I click and go. In addition to the basic BM links I also have my possibilities links. These are community sites, forums, and pages I have noticed ranking high in my keyword areas. Then there are my profit links, which let me login to PayPal, Clickbank, etc to check the daily gross receipts. My Shortcuts: Anything you need for research & development should be in a shortcut folder for easy access. I went from searching for which tool I was looking for in my programs menu To this Only the software I use for BM is in this shortcut folder. The easiest way to do this for those who may not be familiar is to: Create a folder on your desktop or and label it something like BUM Shortcuts. Click start and enter your programs area. Click and drag the tool you want into your BUM folder on your desktop. My Templates: Yes, Im still using FrontPage! I use simple layouts so this works. However, the results Im getting from XSitePro are doing well, so I may make the complete switch for my marketing sites. The template for each new site is already laid out.
