Never Again will you lose 'that important report' the night before it is due! Incredible New Software Recovers Deleted And Lost Files That You Thought Were Gone Forever... From: Bargain Hunter Warehouse Dear Friend, Whether its a slip of the finger or a glitch in Windows, doesnt it always seem that its the most important files that get deleted and cant be recovered? When you lose a word processing document, spreadsheet, source code file, or some other important file, hours of hard work can go up in smoke in a digital second when a valuable file disappears. Sure, Windows has a Recycle Bin, thats SUPPOSED to let you recover a deleted file, but it doesnt always work. Worse, files that are deleted by application software, or when you hit SHIFT- DELETE, delete files en mass, or when an application crashes, bypass the recycle bin altogether so there is no chance of getting them back once that happens. What are your options? Spend hours of your time re-creating the document? Spend thousands of dollars with a data recovery company? Tell your boss or client that your PC ate your project? All you have to do is fire up InstantFileRecovery and it goes right to work to immediately identify and recover your accidentally deleted file. And even if a portion of the lost file has already been overwritten, InstantFileRecovery will attempt to reconstruct as much of the file as possible with the remaining content. This means that you can usually get SOME of your deleted file back in the worst case scenario. And thats way better than getting back nothing at all. The best thing about InstantFileRecovery is that it isnt necessary for it to have been pre-installed in order to recover your lost files. Thats right! So even if you are reading this right now, and you dont already own a copy of InstantFileRecovery, its probably not too late. You can download your copy now and put it to work recovering a file that you deleted yesterday, last week, or even a month or more ago. Trust me, if all or part of your missing file is still on your hard drive, InstantFileRecovery will, well, get YOUR files back. It really is that simple!
