"Finally! Now You - Or Anyone - Can Make Money From Every Post You Write Through Monetizing Your Blogs For Abundance Of Profits!" Discover 4 Very Good Reasons Why You Should Start Your Own Blog And Create Your Wealth Around It - Whether It's For Personal Or Business Use! Dear Friend, Did you know? According to the American Life Project and The Guardian (UK), in the last 6 months of 2004, blog readers grew from a mere 17 of the population to a robust 37 -- that's a significant increase! And this year 2006 - that figure projected to increase by yet another 20-24 on top of the existing percentage! Evidently, more and more Internet users are becoming more accustomed to reading and relying on independent sources of information other than common media, whether it's for business or personal usage. Which leads to another interesting question: should you be starting your own blog? Here Are 4 Very Good Reasons Why You Should Be Starting Your Own Blog! Starting your own blog can be free. As a matter of fact, your startup cost is just about zero. More and more Internet users today are becoming more comfortable to reading and surfing at weblogs other than relying on formal sources and media for information. No technical knowledge is required. In other words, you don't have to be HTML or programming savvy to know how to utilize a blog. One of the most common profit vehicle linked to blogs is that of monetizing from Google AdSense program. You don't necessarily have to have your own product in order to make money online. As long as you can drive targeted traffic into your blog and increase your ad clickthroughs, your income is guaranteed. Now while the reasons are rather persuasive and that blogging can be all profitable for any individual, what are often the problems are: Owning a blog can be a serious drain on your time. Whether you're posting on your personal or business blog, updates play a very vital role here. We're not just talking about attracting your readers to keep coming back for fresh content. You need to take into consideration about major Search Engines that influence the rank of your web pages! Creating fresh content on a regular basis can prove to be a challenge. From a marketing perspective, a blog can significantly detract from your time. It can also put you in a bind to add fresh content to a site that might be better off with a static, optimized sales page. Relying on only one income

source. In most cases, relying on only one source of income i.e. Google AdSense can spell "suicide". It might have passed off as alright if you're doing it as a hobby but what if you're a serious player and you intend to make serious income? Now you wish that there's someone (or something) that could teach you the ropes and trades of blogging - in and out. You're very sure that there's more to the game of blogging than just smacking together a couple of blogs filled with tons of irrelevant pages and then paste your Google AdSense codes. And what about commitment? You want to post at your leisure - not out of force. Yet you know the consequences of not updating your blog often. That'll risk you at running out of ideas quick. This isn't taking into account how much time and effort you could be wasting on writing alone which you could've better spend the same effort marketing your blog instead (that's where the money is, after all).
