Let me ask you: If you were to play any sport or any game purely on defense, what are the chances of your succeeding at that game? Most individuals would agree, slim and none. Yet thats precisely how most individuals play the cash game. Their chief concern is survival and security rather than producing wealth and abundance. So, what is your goal? What is your objective? What is your real intent? The goal of really rich individuals is to have monumental wealth and abundance. Not just some cash, but lots of cash. So what is the big goal of poor individuals? To have enough to pay the bills... and on time would be a miracle! let me tell you of the power of intent. When your intent is to have enough to pay the bills, thats precisely how much youll acquire simply enough to pay the bills and not a dime more. Middle-class individuals at least go a pace further... too bad its a midget pace. Their big goal in life likewise happens to be their favorite word in the whole wide world. They simply wish to be comfortable. I hate to break the news to you, but theres a big difference between being comfy and being wealthy.
