This software will retrieve your registration information on Windows 2000, XP and 2003. It shows your Windows version, product ID, registered owner and organization as well as your installation product key. XP Product Key Grabber will also allow you to change your product key. If your Windows installation is already activated, the software will apply your activation status to the new key so you won't have to go through product activation again. The entire process is very simple. Just click the change key button, then wait about 5 seconds then XP Product Key Grabber tells you the results and your done. This is not a "key generator". You need to supply your own product key.
