David Tolk studied classical piano from an early age in the small, sylvan town of Mendham, New Jersey. At the age of 14, David moved to Nashville with his family and continued his musical training with a broader approach, incorporating jazz and developing his improvisational skills. David began composing contemplative instrumental piano music and performing with rock bands while in high school. David began performing with folk artist Peter Breinholt to sold-out concerts throughout the United States. After recording several albums with Breinholt, David recorded his first CD of original compositions, Mendham, inspired by memories of the natural beauties of his childhood home. His second album, Stories in the Sky, containing songs influenced by poetry, travel, and family, was released the following year. David's Christmas album, Holiday, features his arrangements of both traditional and original Christmas carols and has found distribution throughout the United States, Canada, and Europe.
