Tom Sabella learned the business side of the music industry from the ground up. He has been a performer, agent, manager, and recording studio owner. In fact, his vocal group, the Acts, was together for over 20 years - they performed around the country and recorded six albums. When the group retired in 1992, Tom began to think about helping other musicians with the business side of the music industry. Drawing from his years of experience, Tom designed and taught an Entertainment Marketing/Internship Program. Through this program he helped talented young people to acquire that one extra element that could help make the successful; the business side of the music industry. It was through this simple beginning; his students dubbed him The Music Biz Guru and the professionals he worked with agreed. Today, working with Dove and Grammy award winning artists like Phil Keaggy, Terry Blackwood, and other music professionals in Nashville, TN, Tom is reaching beyond the classroom with Music Business Seminars and related material. In his own words Tom says, I started as a young kid, working with other young kids. We made a lot of needless mistakes in our climb. I want to share some of those same mistakes with up and coming talents so they dont have to spin their wheels the way I did. His book, Dont Get Taken, Take Control; Twelve Things Musicians Need to Know. and now the Page 2 Radio Network of Internet Radio programs designed to help talented people, wherever they are, employ practical steps toward success. The Business Side of Music internet radio show, also known today as a Podcast, is an exciting, entertaining, informative and practical show discussing topics of great interest and importance to musicians and performers alike. Youll hear from Toms own experiences. Tom and co-host Traci Root also interview special guests sharing their personal experiences that opened doors to their successes.
