This dynamic singing and writing duo is a unique blend of two distinctive talents, each having continuing success as a solo act. With names like Delnora and Jayron they were born to break the mold. Their musical influences range from the Celtic-tinged fiddle of the West Virginia mountains to the pure country music that still rises with the backroads dust in the small towns of northwest Georgia. Picture, if you will, the teaming of a Vince Gill and an Allison Kraus, singing edgy new songs that are the best fusion of good-grass and country. This duo will leave you haunted and wanting more. Delnora has been professionally performing her signature blend of country, folk and bluegrass music across the country since she was a teenager. Her first album, entitled Delnora, was released when she was only 16 and received airplay on Country Radio both here and in the United Kingdom. While in college Delnora was named one of the Ten Best College Entertainers in America. She also made the Top Ten in the Miss West Virginia Pageant, earning the award for Best Talent along the way. Delnora has written with some of the best talent in Nashville and has recorded with two major record labels, Dreamworks and RCA. Jayron began performing music as a teenager with his familys bluegrass band. If the instrument has strings, he can play it! While working his way through college he took on the role of music leader for his local church. He was also honored by the Jackson College of Music, who invited him to perform as a guest vocalist on their annual live recording. In 2005, Jayron beat a field of thousands to become one of the ten finalist on NASHVILLE STAR (USA Network). Jayron wowed the judges (Phil Vassar, Anastasia Brown, and Brett Michaels) as well as the fans. With a final four finish under his belt, Jayron hit the road on tour and hasnt let up since.
