He was raised in the sleepy little community of Cedar Grove, outside the bustling city of Atlanta, Georgia. Jasons passion for singing came at an early age, performing his first solo in the fifth grade and many times at his church. He was encouraged by many to perform at special events and various venues in the Atlanta area. Starting out at the karaoke joints, Jason charmed the ladies with his looks and the critics with his voice. This set the pace to Jasons recognized talent. His high school voice coach, Don Johnson also encouraged Jason to set new goals for his musical talents, In February, 2005 Jason received final round positioning and encouraging support from the judges and producers in the Nashville Music Network singing competition held in Tampa, Florida. With great support from his family and close friends, Jason cut his first demo First Flight. Produced and engineered by Jim Boling Productions, this demo featured six heart touching original songs written by Nashville songwriters Ronnie Godfrey and Kim Morrison. His outstanding cast of musicians included finger- picking legend Johnny Carlton, extraordinary native Atlanta guitarists, Tommy Strain, and Randy Smith, whose fiddle work glistens with the essence of Nashvilles finest.past and present! Jason graduated from Landmark Christian High School in 2005. Following his first year at Abraham Baldwin Agricultural Collage in Tifton, Georgia, where he studied Wildlife Management, Jason returned home to perform at Six Flags Over Georgias Crystal Pistol Theatre. He tirelessly performed in over 225 shows in the Honky Tonk Saturday Night Show where his audience regarded him as a real crowd pleaser. Loving the crowds and performing country songs, Jason then made a tough decision to move his focus totally to his music. He turned down a music scholarship at LaGrange College, packed up his belongings in Tifton and chose not to return to college. Since then, Jasons days have been filled with a different sort of college; receiving vocal instructions from renowned vocal coach Jan Smith and honing his guitar skills with Peter Vogl in Atlanta, Georgia. Jason continued his dues paying performances this past spring and summer at Six Flags Over Georgia, again, at the Crystal Pistols Days Go By, as well as booking acoustical and band gigs all over the southeast including a five month part- time tenure at Cowboys ( Kennesaw, GA).
