Extracting Maximum Cash From Your Email List PERSONAL USE RIGHTS ONLY! An e-mail list is one of the biggest assets that you can possibly have when it comes to any kind of business whether it be online or offline. In fact, businesses that have an e-mail list have a much better chance of not only succeeding but also weathering financial storms. Think about it... Which business is going to have a better chance of making it through a recession? One with a big e-mail list to market to or one with no way of contacting previous customers? Thats a pretty easy question to answer. Of course its the business that can contact previous customers through their e-mail list! E-mail lists are not only great to have, theyve become standard operating equipment when doing business in any industry. An e-mail list is the single most important & Valuable Asset Any Business Can Posses! Its a fact, businesses with e-mail lists have one of the biggest advantages that any business could possibly have. If youre having trouble paying the bills one month and you have an e-mail list, you have the power to contact past customers or clients. With no e-mail list, you have no existing resource available to you to help bring in additional income to get over the sales slump. The only option you would have when it comes to a slow day is to call up the local radio station and buy last minute advertising. Let me tell you, its extremely expensive to get radio advertising on a last minute basis. On top of radio advertising being expensive, its also extremely hard to get an advertisement aired at all when it comes to last minute requests. So as you can see, your options are extremely limited when it comes to a slow day in which your business isnt making any cash. An e-mail list is not only a way you can contact your customers but also a way to do so without ANY additional investment. What other form of advertising gives you the ability to advertise at turbo speed while also allowing you to do it without any cost? There isnt one!
