Singer and harmonica player Ken is a veteran of the British scene, having performed in major festivals alongside stars of the blues such as Paul Lamb, Stan Webb, Les Wilson, The Hamsters, the Hoax and a host of others. He has also been nominated for the title of blues harmonicist of the year by the British Blues Connection and with his group the Walter Harpman Band, has played on the Paul Jones show on the B.B.C. The influences of his fellow traveller are more widespread, taking in the ragtime guitar style of Blind Blake, the dark music of Robert Johnson, and the lighter finger-picking styles of Lightnin Hopkins, Blind Boy Fuller and Brownie McGhee. Jim is an excellent guitarist and singer, who lived and played around the Chicago area over a period of 7 years before arriving France. Over the past years he has played in UK (where he originates), Germany, Denmark and now France, where he now lives. The music resulting from these two musicians takes us back to the very roots of modern blues music. youtube records.com/AcousticBluesTravellers.htm YouTube link youtube.com/user/twobluesmen
