Details: A Higher Dimension was recorded January 29th, 1988, and was the first album where I could say as a musician and creator of music for meditation, If I die tomorrow I can go happily, knowing that Ive done this recording. I had been in an intensive spiritual process for the previous four and a half years, studying with Hilda Charlton and several of her students, and had been learning to express the spiritual journey through music. So when the opportunity came to record, I did bring some prepared music, but mostly I brought my willingness to listen and perform the music of inspiration which I heard inwardly. I wanted to express the principles I had been learning spiritually. I also wanted to express the realms of grace I had touched in my spiritual journey. As the recording progressed, divine qualities would occur to me and with them a musical piece would begin in my head. I then played on the piano what I was hearing inside. Putting the album together was fairly easy as the qualities which became the titles of the pieces and the music had their own logic and progression.
