He wrote a song about his third nut to score chicks and establish superiority over his dull bi-gonadic male peers. It was then that he realized he had an aptitude for writing crappy songs about ridiculous subject matter. Norm met Dave DeDionisio in 2006 and together they have confused people that are half-way listening and generated awkwardness and scattered applause from literally several, several different audiences at various open-mic nights and other non-paying venues. In 2007, Norm finished his first CD - a project recorded in his living room. The 10 tracks on this album represent the passion and genius of Norm Shermans music. Tales of dates gone awry, stories of non-traditional milk sources, nightmares of Jesus DNA being discovered and exploited, paranoid conspiracy theories about the government and chupacabres - it all blends together with mediocre banjo playing and Norms tender and sincere voice. Youve never heard anything like Norm Sherman, thats for sure. Listen for yourself, youll agree hes an entire testicle better than everybody else out there.
