Details: RICK VITO -BIO- A singer and guitarist of the first rank. You are listening to a master of his instrument who is finally getting some of the attention as bluesman/bandleader that is long overdue!

JOHN MAYALL Rick Vitos guitar playing just slays me! His style is as cool and sharp as a 59 Cadillac tailfin. BONNIE RAITT Few musicians in the past few decades can lay claim to the caliber of credits held by singer-guitarist, Rick Vito. His stellar slide and lead guitar work has enriched the recordings and performances of such legendary Hall of Fame rock and blues artists as Bob Seger, Bonnie Raitt, Jackson Browne, John Mayalls Bluesbreakers, Roy Orbison, and scores of others. To date he has appeared on over one hundred released recordings, and his haunting slide solo on Segers Like A Rock, has been heard by untold millions as the guitar voice on the Chevrolet truck TV commercial ads over the past decade! Perhaps best known as a member of legendary supergroup Fleetwood Mac (1987-1991), Ricks presence brought back a passionate bluesy quality to the bands music. His original songs and guitar/vocal performances are featured on their recordings, Behind the Mask, The Chain, Greatest Hits, The Very Best Of Fleetwood Mac, and the live concert DVD, Tango In The Night. Ricks debut solo album, King Of Hearts released in 1992 on Atlantic Records, was praised in Guitar Player magazine as ...a dazzling collection of fiery, slide guitar-driven songs. His voice and guitar were again captured at their finest in his second solo work, 1998s Pink Black, this time in a more traditional blues-rock setting. In 2000 Rick signed with the German based Hypertension Music label which released an incredible third solo CD, Lucky Devils. He then took his band to tour Europe where he appeared on the now classic "Ohne Filter" TV show, which was released on DVD in 2004 as Rick Vito Live In Concert. Ricks recent endeavors have included much-heralded world tours with blues and rock icons, Bonnie Raitt, and John Fogerty. As producer, Rick also collaborated with rockabilly filly, Rosie Flores. This resulted with the release of Speed of Sound, which received uniformly incredible reviews. Ricks guitar work also appears on recent releases by Delbert McClinton (the Grammy winning, Nothing Personal), Hank Williams Jr., and The Tractors. Warner Brothers major movie release, Angel Eyes, starring Jennifer Lopez, featured Ricks song, Its Two A.M., as performed by Alligator Records superstar, Shemekia Copeland. This song also garnered Rick the prestigious W.C. Handy Award for Blues Song of the Year. In the Dreamworks motion picture, The Castle, starring Robert Redford, and James Gandolfini, Rick is featured in a rare cameo as a military police captain. His songs have also appeared on many TV shows including Without A Trace, Thieves, Felicity, HBOs Real Sex, and Everwood. Ricks next CD, Crazy Cool, was released in 2002 in Europe followed again by a sellout tour that also included rave performances at major Blues festivals there. A fifth CD, Bandbox Boogie, followed in late 2003. More in the tradition of jump and swing blues, it includes many show-stopping favorites such as Blues Town, Little Sheba, Where Did You go, Bettie Page, and the blistering title track instrumental, a salute to Ricks guitar idols of the swing era. Ricks new 2006 CD, Rattlesnake Shake, is a tour de force for all fans of slide guitar, blues, and rhythm-rock, and is now available exclusively on his website. He continues to tour worldwide to enthusiastic audiences everywhere. Perhaps bluesman Keb Mo said it best: .Soulful singer, brilliant guitarist. You got to check Rick Vito out for sure!
