A sonic-journey modeled on Pink Floyds Dark Side of the Moon, COMPASSION is the brainchild of renowned cellist electric-cellist Michael Fitzpatrick. COMPASSION is the first musical collaboration/recording in history to fuse the ancient chant traditions of East and West. COMPASSION, which involved Tibets Drepung Loseling Monks, world-renowned for their multiphonic chant, the Abbey of Gethsemani Schola, revered for its Gregorian chant, and Millenia Musics soaring instrumentalists, was recorded and filmed inside the largest cave in the world, Mammoth Cave, as well as at the famous monastery the Abbey of Gethsemani, and at the Furnace Mountain Zen Temple. COMPASSION was recommended for a Special Merit Award at the Grammy Awards, prompting EMI Jazz Classics CEO President Bruce Lundvall to state: COMPASSION is at once both a prayer and an aural celebration of brotherhood and world peace. It has the power to bring feelings of hope and human compassion to all who listen. michaelfitzpatrick.com
