Details: "Let's do this one last time, people," spake he of the Punch, yet again. And yea, did they come anew to sow seeds and to plow one another. After the rain did dry and the harvest had transpired, one lone salesman did stand motionless in the field. "I ain't no farmer!" he raked, from deep within his cockles. Just then, as now, a thunder thundered, and the voice of the Punch, itself, did call down to him from an eleventh floor apartment. "Then write me a press release or something." And so it was. In a world where men have gods, and the sea vomits forth evolutionary beings, hurtling through time, J-punch is a king among princes.
