Groove out to some upbeat rockers, or chill out to some soulful ballads. Stereobuss will fill your body, mind, and soul with some insanely smooth pleasure, so if you like feeling good, take a listen. 8 MP3 Songs POP: Pop/Rock, ROCK: Soft Rock Details: Summer 2007 marks the release of Stereobuss first independent studio album, Song is the Lifeblood. The Vancouver based pop rock band was formed in late 2006 by Tom Howie, who is the lead singer, songwriter and visionary of the emerging group. Tom, along with lead guitarist Jason Nett and an experienced lineup of contributing artists have spent the last six months recording the album in Vancouver. The record features eight memorable tracks with honest, raw lyrics about self exploration and lifes purpose. Guitars, trumpet, bass, piano, keyboards and percussion are combined to create the albums diverse and soulful sound. Included in the collaboration of musicians on the album, Sarah McLachlan lends piano and background vocals to Stereobuss talent. Song is the Lifeblood was produced by Mowgli (Sarah McLachlan), Tom Howie and Jason Nett and engineered by Chris Potter (Bryan Adams, Sarah McLachlan). The band is currently focused on live performances to share their sound throughout Western Canada. Calgary is the first to experience a sampling of Stereobuss new tracks since the release of the new album. They will continue to play and promote the record in British Columbia in the fall, and work on a new album will begin in the next few months. Stereobuss is a band dedicated to artistic freedom and exploration. Their goal is to bring innovation and fresh sounds to the music industry as they continue to create their own new style of music. Expect to see and hear great things from this collaboration of emerging talent, as Stereobuss is a musical force that has only begun to deliver.
