James Dewitt Yancey (February 7, 1974February 10, 2006), better known as J Dilla or Jay Dee, was an acclaimed hip-Hop producer who emerged from the mid-1990s underground Hip-Hop scene in Detroit, Michigan. He began his career as a member of the group Slum Village, and was also a driving force in the production trio The Ummah. Yancey started his career under the name Jay Dee (based on his initials) but used the name J Dilla from 2001 onward. Many critics believe J Dilla's work to have had a major influence on his peers[1] and that he embodied the neo soul sound, playing a defining yet understated role during the sub-genre's rise (roughly from the mid-90s to the early 2000s). J Dilla was often dubbed "your favorite producer's favorite producer," and was highly regarded by hip hop artists and producers such as Royce Da 5'9", Common, Kanye West, A Tribe Called Quest, Just Blaze, Busta Rhymes, Lupe Fiasco, Pharrell Williams, Madlib, The Pharcyde, Slum Village and ?uestlove. These sounds were recorded and designed by professional engineers using Pro Tools for the best sample quality available. Our samples are carefully picked, recorded, and fully analyzed to ensure that they are clear of any faults and have more live sounding feel which is credited to the drum sets, sound modules, and samplers which are widely used by award winning producers. You will notice the difference once you apply these sounds to your musical works and you will not regret it.
