The much anticipated album Mojezeyeh Khamoosh or "The silent Miracle", is a musical journey with Dariush, where the destination is our inner soul. Each track delivers the most powerful insight into the mere fact that sometimes we all need to be reminded of the obvious, that thrilling realization that the miracle is within us. The album comes to life with a powerful epic, and at the end, leaves you looking ahead into a journey of a lifetime, pondering on the symbolism of each song: Chess: "Isn't ironic how history repeats itself? Aren't we the ones with a choice? The choice to either play or be played?" Calendar: "From growth and prosperity, to decay and death, how do we take the reigns of our fate, our destiny? Do we ever learn from history?" Hour of Doom: "The forces of chaos are the most ruinous of all powers, but determination and shutting out the shadows of doubt and fear will always be a reminder that the light is within us, shouldn't we look for the strength within us?" Nightglow: "The glimmer of hope is flickering in the distance, and hesitant breath of our own motivation is the only thing that keeps it alive, forever shining in the darkness of our chaotic universe." Homesick: "How do we come to terms with our inner most painful feelings? If we only knew that the way out, lies within us, waiting for a flicker, for an explosion, for a revelation..." Silent Miracle: "Where is the key to the inner self? A perpetual quest, when you are lost in the alleys of your soul. Are we prompted by our ego to look the other way? Where is my compass?" Soulmate: "Someone who completes you, feels you and empowers you, the one who silently embraces all of you, in every way... Isn't this the search of a lifetime?" Image of a Dream: "What a grand feeling to have love surround your universe. The unbelievable moment when you reach out and touch a dream, isn't it true that love gives you wings?" Song of Angels: "What is that spark that lights up our life? Can you love someone more than love itself? Is that what we all are looking for? Is that what makes life worth living?" On a Journey: "If all else is lost, the legacy of our life cannot be taken away as long as it supersedes all things material. Isn't that how you live eternally?" Tags: pop
