Ben is a veteran of the acoustic music scene, first as a founding member of the bluegrass band "Loose Ties" and also touring with singer/songwriter Judith Edelman. Ben also produced a well-received solo album called "One Shoe Left" and records a wide range of music in his Hen House Studio. Years back, before becoming involved in outdoor marketing-related pursuits (and music), Dave was a fly fishing guide and instructor. Currently, Ben and Dave both play in the up-and-coming contemporary bluegrass band "Kane's River," which is steadily gaining national recognition. Ben lives in Victor, Idaho (outside of Jackson Hole) and Dave lives in Bozeman, Montana (just north of Yellowstone Park), and of course this part of the country is world-famous for its trout fishing - so it's no surprise that Ben and Dave are both avid fly fishermen. Ben had always marveled at the vast number of fishing-related songs and tunes found in every style of music, and he thought it would be interesting to explore recording new versions of some of them. He came to Dave with the suggestion that they create an album that would highlight some of these great tunes, and tap some of the contacts that they had collected over the years to get superb acoustic musicians like Tim and Mollie O'Brien and Mike Dowling excited about being part of the project. One of their main goals was to keep the tracks fun, but not frivolous, and the music evocative, without being contrived. They worked to create a collection of music that conveyed their own perspective on fishing-that it isn't about the fish, it's about being outdoors, and having time to yourself. The end result is an album with an unusually wide range of musical styles, yet one that still maintains a certain clean, clear consistency and is appealing to just about everyone, fisherman or not.
