Details: My name is Kenny Hogan, and I'm a songwriter from Boston Mass. I've been making up songs since I was a kid. I grew up during the golden age of rock, soul and blues. I've spent over thirty years playing other people's music, mostly in bar bands. Now it's time for me to play my own songs. Learning and covering so many popular songs gives me the advantage of seeing how those great songs were constructed, and I apply what I've learned to my own style of songwriting. I built this album slowly, over a three year period, and I played almost all the instruments myself and sang all the vocal harmonies too. I also invited a few friends to add some spices. There's a lot of variety on this album, and I've mixed many styles together. They say if you don't like the weather in New England you just have to wait five minutes. The same saying applies to my album. Give each song a listen. You'll find that the songs will grow on you. Each song has a different character than the one before it. I hope you like my music. Thanks for your support! -Kenny Hogan
