Hard rock with an ethnic edge, thought provoking, and pensive. This Boston based band has been featured on the TV show "CORR" with the driving song "Hubris". With an underground following in the thousands, it's easy to understand why their music is so cap 18 MP3 Songs ROCK: Modern Rock, ROCK: Hard Rock Details: Pervez Taufiq - Vocals Michael Desmond - Guitar Andy DeCicco - Bass Gregg Irick - Drum That thought that you are doing something or saying something for the first time is a thought people have been having throughout all time. Every word, every action, has been conceptualized by someone before you, they are for all intents and purposes, syndicated. So when you actually DO forge new ground, innovate, and give way to something new, you are in fact living syndication. This is the concept behind the band that's attempting to change the way you listen at music, Living Syndication. Living Syndication may fall into the category of hard and heavy rock but there are perceptible facets to this stone sounds of Eastern Indian instrumentation lend an aura of mystery and hypnoticism to songs; shades of jazz fusion subtly influence; moments of acoustic music punctuate the vibe of a song; while pure energy pulls up the weight of intensity. With a collectively diverse background from the members of this Boston-based band who are Pervez Taufiq on lead vocals, Mike Desmond on guitar, Andy DeCicco on bass, and Gregg Irick on drums Living Syndication have formed a sound that in a short period of time has begun to generate attention. Selling over 5,000 copies of the debut release OM FACTOR, Living Syndication was able to generate a strong following that has only grown stronger in anticipation of their sophomore release, "Aneurythm", an 18 track 80 Minute CD of monumental proportions. "There's something for everyone", says guitarist Michael Desmond, and indeed there is. With each track of ANEURYTHM, you hear a diversity that's unheard any where else.. With song writing that transcends the boundaries of the genre, Living Syndication has been building their second album, Aneurythm, for 2 1/2 years. "It's something that we are truly proud of," says singer Pervez Taufiq. With a variety of musicalities within the tracks, it's impossible to brand this band. Being compared to band such as Tool, Staind, Sevendust with a fusion of Ravi Shankar, it's easy to see why they're gaining so many fans worldwide. Living Syndication has shared the stage with bands like Earshot, Sevendust, Filter, Shinedown, Lacuna Coil, Crossfade, Kill Hannah, and packed clubs and theaters between Boston to Florida. Having been in the studio for a majority of 2+ years, LS is looking forward to connecting with it's fans this summer. Check out ANEURYTHM, and you'll agree, it was worth the wait. Searches:living syndication-compromise mp3 download
