Available On CD Confessions Of A Male Chauvinist Pig AKPCD 1010 This vintage 1973 Album By Artie Kaplan has not seen the light of day in the USA in many a year. Its European life has been much more fruitful. "Harmony" worked its way to becoming a huge hit for Kaplan in Italy, France, Germany and Spain, while "Bensonhurst Blues" as well as being a hit for Kaplan, has been discovered by Dutch recording artist Oscar Benton (EMI Records) to become a great success all over the continent as well as the title song in the hit movie "Whirlpool" directed by Alan Delon. While the subject matter of the "Confessions" piece was considered a bit risqué for the nineteen seventies, Kaplan's gravel voiced message has withstood the test of time. This eleven minute jazz/fusion/rock roll depiction of a misguided American male character will surely remind you of someone that you have known in this era of Women's Liberation. Of the remaining sides in this all-star musicians album. We think that each and every one is simply delightful. Get yourself a copy.....You won't be disappointed.
