Guitar percussive songwriter with a soulful creative edge 16 MP3 Songs POP: Folk Pop, FOLK: Folk Pop Details: Though born in New York City, Wendy Woo grew up in Colorado. Her energetic personality, musical skills, and spirited songwriting have made her a media and fan favorite. Multicultural in both heritage and outlook, Woo displays a blend of soul, vibrancy, and wild child attitude. A passionate live performer who connects instantly with her audiences, she has been playing to sold out venues every week and attracting national music industry attention. Whether playing by herself or with her band, she draws you in and holds you there. Her voice is simultaneously intimate and assured. Her songs are wide-ranging in style but always pure in emotion: from down and dirty blues to defiant ex-lover funks to summer day sambas to wistful ballads. Her guitar-playing includes fretwork riffs so unusual they always generate cheers. Her talent has not gone unnoticed. She performed a two-hour concert broadcast nationally on Altitude Sports and Entertainment Network. Her music has been featured in Uncommon Goals, a 1999 Discovery Channel documentary about the gold medal-winning U.S. women's soccer team; Mountain of Dreams, a 2003 documentary about Mt. Everest; and the Food Network's "FoodNation with Bobby Flay." She also sings the theme song for "Good Day Colorado," the weekday morning show on Denver's Fox affiliate. And she is part of national sports retailer Title Nine's Emerging Women Artist series. In addition, she has won numerous accolades including: * Five-Time Winner Best Singer/Songwriter (Denver's Westword) * Independent Artist of the Year (2003) (Hapi Skratch Entertainment). * Best Boulder Musician (2004) (The Boulder Weekly). * Best Singer/Songwriter (The Boulder Daily Camera). * Best Local Artist (Colorado Daily). * Winner of the Colorado Lilith Fair Talent Search. * Named to music critics' "Best Colorado CDs of the Year" lists: "Ecolalia" (The Denver Post and Westword) and "Gonna Wear Red"(DenverLocalMusicScene) She was part of the 1999 Lilith Fair in Denver, sharing the stage with Sarah McLachlan and The Indigo Girls. She has opened for Sheryl Crow, India.Arie, Counting Crows, Shawn Colvin, 38 Special, Dave Mason, Stanley Jordan, Eric Johnson, Karla Bonoff, The Crash Test Dummies, Sonia Dada, Sean Mullins, Sophie B. Hawkins, and Loudon Wainwright III. and other national acts. Woo's parents, Jane, an artist, and Bataan, a poet, were founding faculty members of Boulder's legendary Naropa Institute. The Faigao home was a gathering spot for such literary icons as Beat poet Allen Ginsberg, Merry Prankster Ken Kesey, and 1960s chronicler Norman Mailer. Local music critics have lauded her as a significant member of Boulder's "organic" music scene. Her musical experience includes studying classical guitar and music theory in college; working at Boulder's most famous music venue, the Fox Theater; organizing the Women from Mars (an on-going music festival); and serving as a producer for multiple projects including CDs for herself and Sally Taylor, daughter of Carly Simon and James Taylor. Woo has released six CDs, displaying a wide variety of styles: "Angels in the Crowd" (1997) is a collection of mellow jazz and folk-inspired ballads. "Wide Awake and Dreaming" (1999) is a full band production with funk and jazz rhythms. "Ecolalia" (2000) features Woo's songs and acoustic guitar interwoven with her father's poetry. "Gonna Wear Red" (2002) is a tightly produced series of rock tunes with touches of funk, blues, and folk. "Walking the Skyline" (2004) has songs in three genres: intimate solo acoustic; expansive upbeat pop/folk; and full band funk. "angels laughing" (2005) is a live solo acoustic album.
