German author E.T.A. Hoffmann. Curtain opens with a Christmas gathering at Stahlbaums house. Clara Stahlbaum and her brother, Fritz merrily celebrates with their family and friends. Looking through the glass window, snowflakes gently fall on the streets. Godfather appears and brings them toys and gifts. He presented a toy Nutcracker as present to Clara, another toy for Fritz. Clara is overjoyed but Fritz is jealous and breaks the Nutcracker. Poor Clara was sad and disappointed. While Clara was exhausted and fall asleep, Godfather then appears to resemble the broken Nutcracker. Nutcracker secretly break the spell, comes to life as a prince, which he used to be. When Clara awakes, she heard the sound of mice.
As she holds the Nutcracker, he rise to defend Clara, a battle between Nutcracker and the Mouse King arouse. Clara and Nutcracker defeated the mice and won the battle. Snowflakes and fairies greet Nutcracker the prince and Clara, bringing them to the party of celebration. They dance and dance again.
Spanish, Chinese, Arabian, Russian dances brought everyone happy greetings in this joyous season.
