Here is a wonderful album of devotional music which enchant the listener with its simplicity and warmth. The songs -- called Bhajans or Khirtans -- are sung at spiritual places in India since time immemorial. 12 MP3 Songs SPIRITUAL: Mantras, NEW AGE: Yoga Details: Ancient Vedic faith "Felix Maria Woschek's beautiful, warm voice sings ancient, Vedic songs of faith in a way that brings them into a European spiritual landscape. (...) Ultimately it is quite unimportant which religion the singing celebrates. Who knows God needs no religion. The experience that really overcomes the listener is a deep, satisfying faith. The Indian mantras that Woschek sings become a "vehicle" for everything that they "transport": liberation, love, peace, grace, bliss. "The true significance", as Woschek says, "cannot be appreciated by any translation, but only in the heart itself." Nevertheless, a sensitively worded explanation is provided to help the listener to understand each of the mantras. I was most particularly moved by the title piece, "Soham", the great mantra of one-ness so urgently recommended by Muktananda. Woschek sings it with an urgency that tells the listener: "Thou art this ... Thou art the universe ... Thou art God ... In Thee are all things ... ". Joachim Ernst Berendt
