Details: "Tribo" is a dynamic collection of original songs in Portuguese, English and Spanish that expresses the universal desire for joy, peace, and harmony. These songs explore our common humanity through the prism of Brazilian music. Mankind is truly one Tribe, un Tribu, uma Tribo. Sambaguru is an ensemble of musicians from Brazil, Sri Lanka, and the United States that has been playing a wide-ranging blend of original music since 1997. Their rich and extensive repertoire arises from the huge diversity in approaches and techniques that distinguish the personal and regional backgrounds of each band member. It is a vibrant band that has its own stylistic inner tensions among these players from widely separated areas of the globe who share a love of Brazilian music. The result is a musical experience of remarkable depth and quality. Here are some reviews about Sambaguru: "Sundays program immediately dipped into Brazilian sounds with singer Katia Moraes Sambaguru. Delivering a program that ranged exuberantly across Brazils multiplicity of rhythms, Moraes was a bundle of galvanized energy, her quick-paced singing empowered by Sambagurus driving rhythm section and the well-crafted arrangements of Bill Brendle." -by Don Heckman Los Angeles Times "...The day started off on a good omen with the long-overdue Playboy Jazz debut of the energetic Los Angeles-based band Sambaguru, featuring Brazilian singer Katia Moraes -- a born afternoon sunshine performer -- who stirred up an irresistible stew of ingredients rooted in the samba." -Variety "Together, they open a wide and colorful world of irresistibly compelling music..." -Los Angeles Times
