After picking the guitar as a teenager he embarked on a journey of self tuition and experimentation that proved to be a valuable foundation in song writing ability and creative intuition. To better his guitar playing skills, Lachlan enrolled at The Guitar Institute, London where he studied under distinguished guitarists such as Alan Limbrick, John Etheridge and Shaun Baxter. This resulted in a lifestyle centred around intense practicing regimes and diligent study of playing techniques and music theory. Lachlan has since developed into a self styled musician of remarkable skill and fine tuned talent. He has spent many years performing on the London pub and club circuit and has worked in a variety of acts including Too Many Words, No Idea, What About Us? and Funky Fluid. He has played along side many prestigious musicians including Darrin Mooney of Primal Scream fame. He later spent a year in Australia where he worked as part of the highly successful Queensland based band Club Crunch. In 2004 he released an instrumental rock guitar album entitled 'The Time Has Come'. The album received rave reviews and the music has been used for various radio commercials. One of the tracks, Just Another Wibbly Bibbly is being used as part of the ride on the Cobra Rollercoaster at Paulton's Park in Hampshire. His new 2007 release, 'The Horne Supremacy - Side One' is the first in a two part album which showcases his vocal talent as well as his already well established guitar playing skills. It is currently only available as a download.
