This is an audio "how to" on the subject of time management. 11 MP3 Songs SPOKEN WORD: Instructional, SPOKEN WORD: Audiobook Details: James D. Brausch spends his days at home with his wife and kids. When folks ask him what he does for a living, sometimes he tells them that he is retired. That's somewhat true. He doesn't need to work. Some of his friends know that he was a homeless drug addict just 10 years ago. They know he built a thriving Internet business while working an 80 hour a week job during his early recovery from meth addiction. Sometimes they make the mistake of saying "I wish I could spend my time with my wife and kids like you... I just don't have the time." His response to the "I don't have time" excuse is legendary. How did he find the time to build his automated business though? This CD answers that question in 10 simple steps. I said "simple", not "easy". One listener sat his kids down to listen to it. They were excited to hear what a millionaire had to say about how he got where he was. They ran screaming from the room about mid-way through the 2nd track. Are you ready for true freedom in your life? Will you go screaming from the room when James gives you his very first step to taking control of your time and life? We'll see...
