Pour yourself a shot of Jameson, throw another mat of peat on the fire and let 4 Irish Whiskey carry you away to the Emerald Isle. 9 MP3 Songs WORLD: Celtic, FOLK: Traditional Folk Details: An trad Irish band called the Tea Merchants was playing some rocking reels. My mind was swimming with other things. For several weeks, I went down to Fado's Irish Pub to grab a pint or whiskey to drink. The music was great but I was discontented. An idea was growing in my mind. I needed to do something about it. After finishing sobering up a wee bit, I raced home and headed into the studio. I poured another glass of whiskey. Then I sat down and recorded Irish song after Irish song. I was on a mission. By the end of the evening, I had eighteen songs recorded live in my studio. I went through them and found nine that I loved the best. They were rough. They were raw. They had the spirit of whisky imbued in them. Songs you might hear in a pub. Songs you might sing-a-long to. Songs that may even make you get up dance. My Irish heart sang that evening. So what was this mission I was aching to share? For several years, I've worked on a website to keep Irish folk songs alive (see it at irish-song-lyrics.com). I don't read sheet music. Instead, I learn the old-fashioned way. I listen. Sadly, most lyric websites don't have soundbytes that go with it. That's my goal. I want the most comprehensive Irish song lyrics website out there that also includes audio files so you can learn like I did. That's what got me started. To keep the website thriving, I started 4 Irish Whiskey, a side project designed to share the Irish Song Lyrics website with the world. Because it was Irish whiskey that inspired me. So 4 Irish Whiskey I will keep the Irish song tradition alive. Slainte!
