The chances of being involved in a court trial over alimony payments are not a question of "IF" but "WHEN". Unless you are substantially well off, there will come a time when your ability to keep paying alimony will lessen or stop altogether. After that, you will be held in contempt of court for falling behind in your payments. Then what will you do? If you can't afford legal counsel, you are at the opposition's mercy. With the information contained in the guidebook, you can change dynamics of your case from one of just defending yourself to that of going on the offense and holding your ground. Doing so can possibly save you a lot of money and keep you out of jail. This self-help guidebook was created specifically for the person who needs to face the family law court on a self-represented basis.
