You can download a free demo. In 2010 in the secret laboratories in Russia, the operating model of time machine was completed -- A discovery which would allow the transfer of objects and humans back to the past. In 2011 under the aegis of special service the 'Red Shark' project was created. The target of the project was the so called 'point correction' of history. By way of historical duration, the period of the Second World War was chosen. Historians presented data of events, which lead to monstrous consequences and carefully planned strategies on how to correctly 'interfere' with history. A military helicopter would have to be the instrument of influence, which is to be sent in different intervals of time with a special mission. Perfectly armed, the modern helicopter could represent a significant fighting machine in the 1940's; however, even though it's super high tech, the helicopter has to face a high number of enemies - alone. To successfully complete this mission, a professional pilot, who is ready to face anything, is required... Are you ready to rise to the challenge? Publisher: Strategy First
