

It's Harder In Heels: Essays By Women Lawyers Achieving Work-life Balance

DOWNLOAD HERE

The book contains essays by and about women lawyers: stories about women practicing (or choosing not to practice) law, about hitting the glass ceiling, about amazing lawyer-mentors, about professional achievements, about personal and professional hardships, about the stress of juggling multiple roles, about meeting the demands of work and family, about being Superwoman, and about hitting the maternal wall. The essays describe women's satisfactions and their struggles. While it may be "harder in heels," the essays are inspiring, observant, introspective, insightful, and wise. Even though the stories revolve around women trained to be lawyers, their stories are relevant to life outside the legal profession and will be lessons for all women professionals. About the editors: Jacquelyn Slotkin: B.A., University of Pittsburgh; M.A., West Virginia University; Ph.D., University of Arizona; J.D., University of San Diego. Program for foreign lawyers at California Western School of Law in San Diego, California. She has been researching female roles since 1976 when she surveyed and analyzed data about female college graduates for her Ph.D. dissertation. In 1996 and in 2002, she surveyed an ethnically diverse population of female attorneys living and working in San Diego to determine if educated women were experiencing role conflict. She is currently completing an article about German women lawyers - an international perspective on women in the legal profession.
